WHO I AM

Hi there,

My name is Adrián Pedraza. I'm a Fullstack Designer. This means that I have knowledge from every stage of the design process, from the earlier design steps to front-end design.

Within all these, UI design and HTML & CSS development are my main strenghts, since those are the tasks I have been doing for most on my working life.

Lately I have been introducing myself more and more into all the UX processes and I expect to keep going through this wonderful path of Product design and Costumer experience.

I consider design a way of storytelling and belive that stories are universal tools. That's why I stand for an open web accesible and understandable for everyone, no matter who, how or where.

After a year working and wandering Australia, I'm back in Madrid trying to find new challenges that help me grow on my professional career.
